Special Angel Nicholas -- Hit and Run Survivor!

Hi people,

My name is Nicholas and I'm a friendly and fearless little bichon boy who is also very special. You see, someone was driving VERY fast and didn't see me. He hit and dragged me for several blocks - then threw me in a dumpster!

But I wanted to get out - and live life - so I made a lot of noise and suddenly I was on my way to being rescued. While I don't look very good just this minute, and my back legs are badly scraped and bruised (my aunties at BFK have the pictures if you have the courage to see them) my heart is strong! And I'm determined to recover fully. Why my foster mom says I don't act like a guy who could lose his back legs. Instead I'm happy, loving and even playful.

My care will be somewhat long and a bit complicated. You see I need to have my bandages changed every day now (so I don't get an infection in my legs 'cause that would be a bad thing.) I have a wonderful foster mom who happens to be a vet tech and she is taking outstanding care of me. Soon, we hope, I will begin to heal and recover from this awful 'happening.'

If you would like to help me get better and maybe even meet me some day, I'd love that. The most important thing to know is that I'm lucky and happy to be alive. And I'm determined to walk again on all four legs and then jump into your lap and give you kisses.

Will you help me please? I promise to be very grateful.

Nicholas
